NEXT MEETING AND ADJOURNMENT

OLD BUSINESS

1. Request to name roads located with in the Ambleside Neighbourhood.

History

On February 6, 2006, the Administration received an application from Stantec Consulting Ltd. to name roads located in the Ambleside Neighbourhood as “Ambleside Way,” “Ambleside Drive,” “Ambleside Crescent,” “Armitage Way,” “Armitage Court,” “Armitage Crescent,” “Armitage Close,” “Armitage Place,” “Ainslie Way,” “Ainslie Close,” and “Ainslie Court.” Both Armitage and Ainslie were selected off of the Names Reserve List.

On February 15, 2006 at the Naming Committee Meeting the following motion was passed:

Motion: Tosh, Brown

That the Administration contact the Applicant to provide more context for road naming within the Ambleside Neighbourhood.

For the Motion: Cavaliere, Brown, Handa, Tosh, Yeudall, Zimmer

Carried unanimously

The applicant revised the initial application April 11, 2006, with some additional naming for adjacent roads, but does not represent the current land owner(s) for the remainder of the neighbourhood. The names suggested are “Ambleside Drive,” “Ambleside Link,” “Armitage Crescent,” “Armitage Close,” “Armitage Green,” “Armitage Place,” “Ainslie Close,” “Ainslie Green,” “Ainslie Court,” “Ainslie Way,” “Ainslie Crescent,” “Adams Link,” “Adams Close,” and “Adams Court.” Armitage, Ainslie and Adams were taken from the Names Reserve List.

Adams, Thomas (1912-1958)

Thomas Adams was born in Scotland and served with the Glasgow police force before emigrating to Boston. In 1912, he came to Edmonton to join the police department. Thomas Adams directed traffic at 101 Street and Jasper Avenue. In 1927, he was shot twice in gun battle in a clothing store on Jasper Avenue. Adams became turnkey at main station, a position he held until his retirement in 1940.

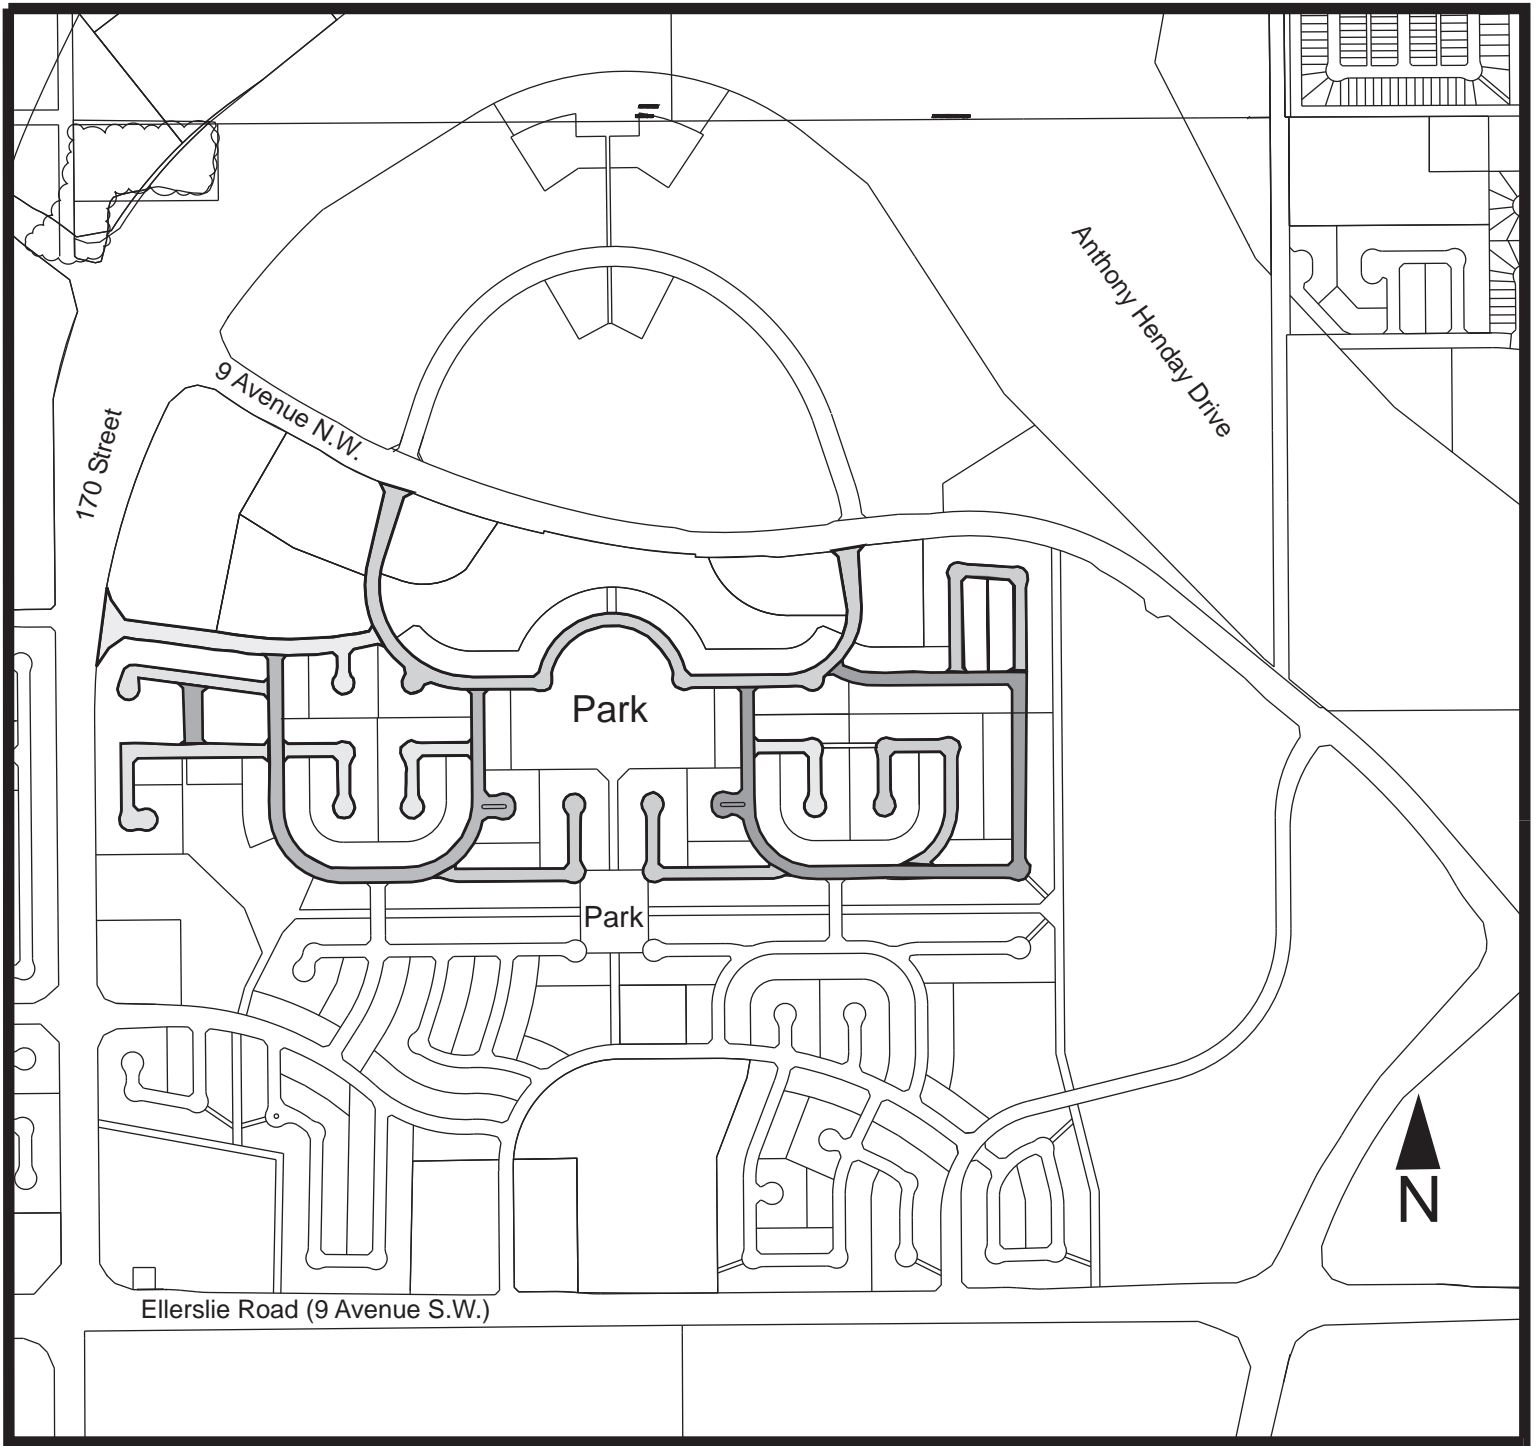

Ainslie, Malcolm (1883-1968)

Malcolm Ainslie was born in 1883 in England and immigrated to Edmonton in 1902. From 1905-1922 he operated a drugstore business. From 1922-1949 he was employed by the City of Edmonton. During World War II, he served with the War Labour Board, the Unemployment Commission Board and participated in drafting the Unemployment Insurance Act.

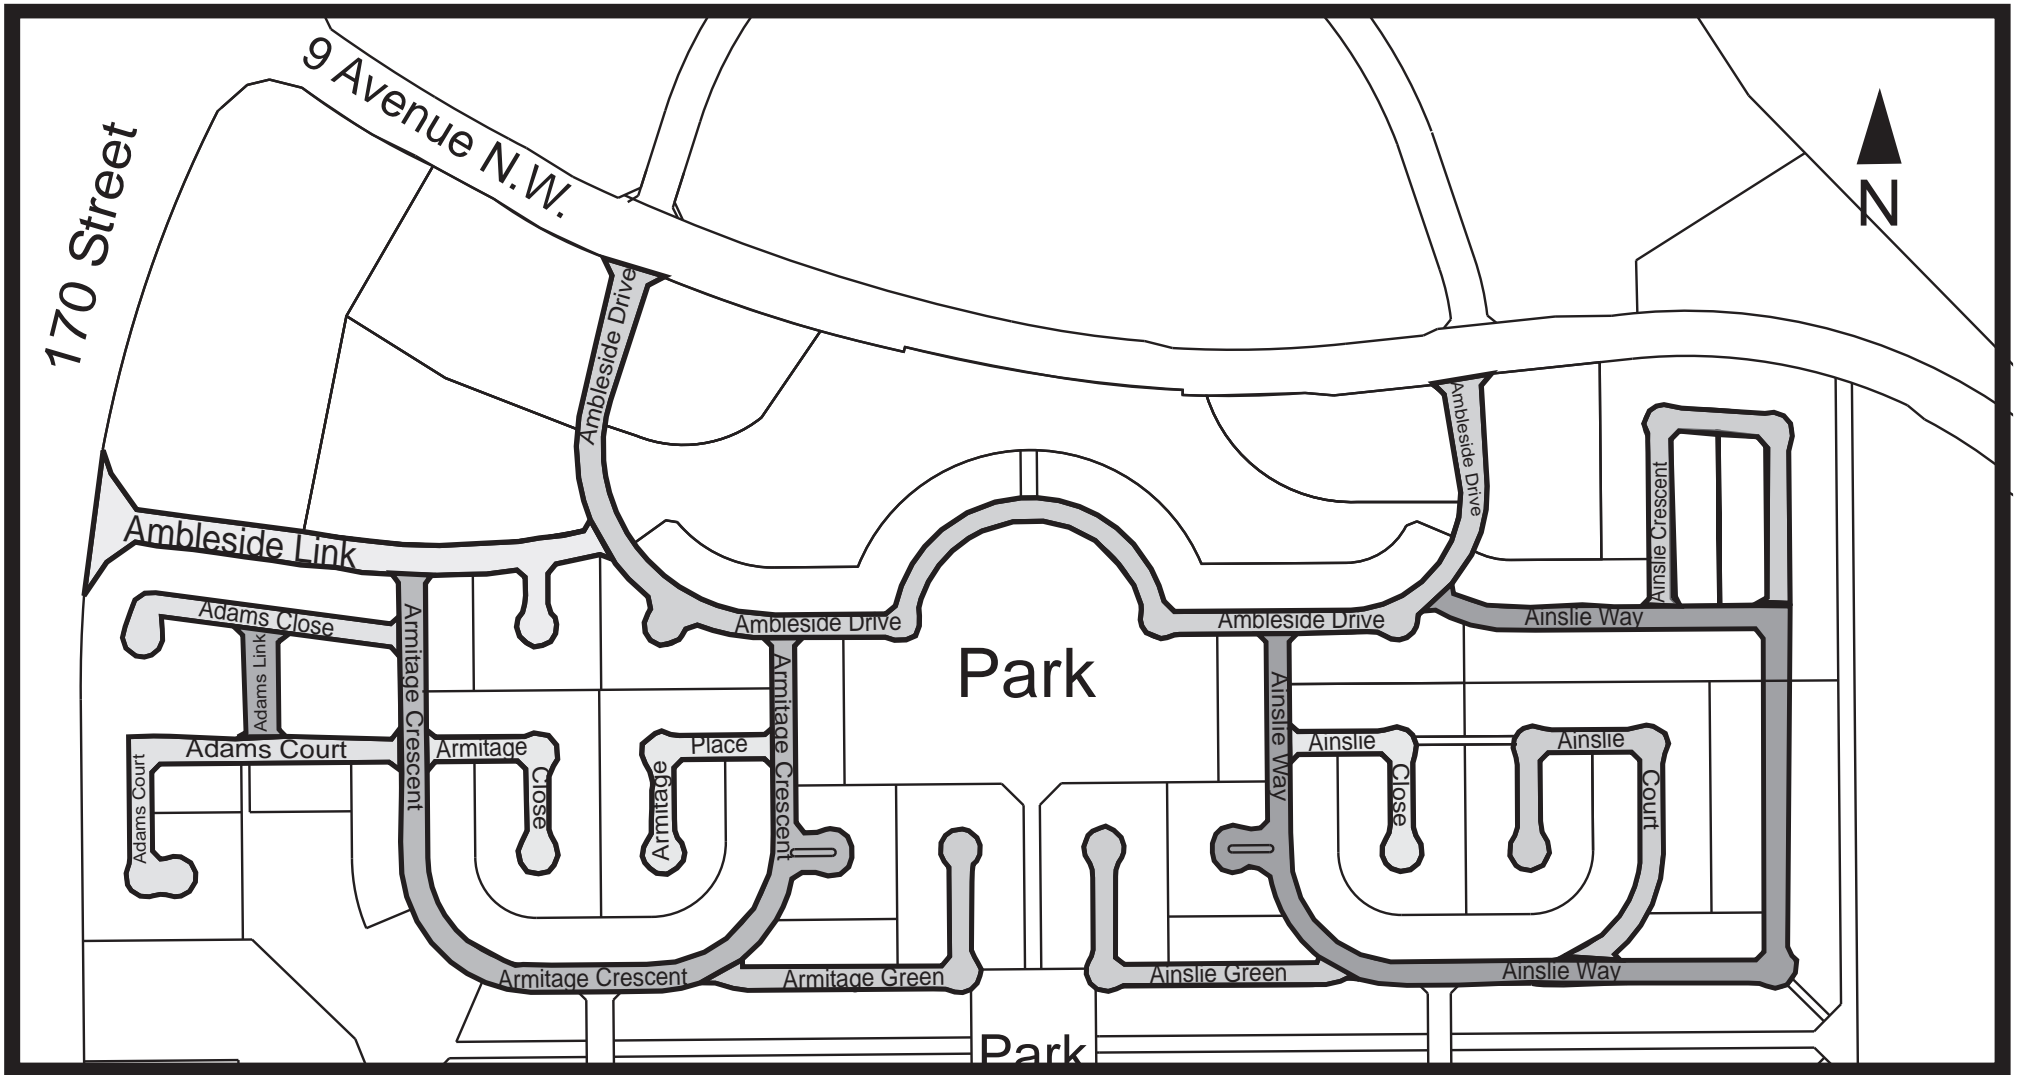

Armitage, H.B. (1879-?)

H.B. Armitage was born in 1879 in Port Colborne, Ontario. At 19, he went to B.C. and worked in the lumber mills, then returned home and went to work for Ogilvie Milling Co. After 5 years he became manager for Revelstoke Lumber in Medicine Hat, then from 1912-1916 was manager of Alberta Lumber in Edmonton. He then moved to Camrose as general manager of Manning-Sutherland Lumber and in 1919 went into private business at Edmonton with 3 branch yards. In 1920, he sold these yards to Alberta Lumber Co. and established H. B. Armitage Lumber. During the war he promoted the sale of bonds and the Victory Loan and took part in many lines of war work. He was a member of the Board of Trade and belonged to the Ad Club. He was a Mason and a chancellor of the Knights of Pythias Lodge.

2. Request to name Stadium Road in honour of Henry “Gizmo” Williams.

On March 1, 2006, the Administration received an application forwarded from Councillor Nickel on behalf of Scott Elderkin to rename Stadium Road in honour of Henry “Gizmo” Williams.

Biography

Williams, Henry “Gizmo” (Born May 31, 1962)

Known affectionately as ‘Gizmo’ for his similarity to a short, squawky-voiced movie character, Henry Williams' skills caused the CFL to create a ‘designated import’ spot on each team's roster to allow for a game-breaking return specialist. But nobody else broke open games like Williams through 14 CFL seasons with the Edmonton Eskimos.

Born May 31, 1962 in Memphis, Williams attended East Carolina University before joining the Edmonton Eskimos in 1986 following a stint with the USFL's Memphis Showboats. In 149 regular-season games he returned 26 punts for touchdowns, including five in one season, to set CFL records. Williams also returned three kick offs and two missed field goals for touchdowns, added 21 TD passes as a part-time receiver and another on a running play.

Undersized (5-foot-6 and 183 pounds) with speedy, hard-charging legs, Williams often punctuated his touchdowns with end-zone flips. He is the CFL's all-time leader in punt returns (1,003), punt-return yardage (11,177), kick off returns (335) and kick off-return yardage (7,354). Williams spent the 1989 season with the NFL's Philadelphia Eagles and rejoined the Edmonton Eskimos in 1990. He continued bringing excitement to the fans of Edmonton and amassed more amazing statistics.

While playing his entire CFL career with the Eskimos, Williams made 14 straight postseason appearances. In 22 playoff games Williams returned 94 punts for 857 yards and one touchdown plus he returned 34 kick offs for 871 yards and one touchdown. In the 1987 Grey Cup game he set a record by returning a missed field goal 115 yards for a touchdown. Williams appeared in five Grey Cup games, helping the Eskimos to victories in 1987 (38-36 over Toronto) and 1993 (33-23 over Winnipeg). He was Edmonton's choice as its outstanding player in 1992. He was a West All-Star seven times (1987, 1988, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994, and 1997) and a CFL All-Star five times (1987, 1991, 1992, 1993, and 1994). Williams amassed 23,927 all-purpose yards throughout his entire CFL career. Henry Williams has received numerous awards and honours. He was inducted into the North West Mississippi Junior College Hall of Fame, and became a member of the Eskimo Wall of Honour in 2002.

Awards and Honours:

CFL All-Star Team (Special Teams) – 1987, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994

Western All-Star (Special Teams) – 1987, 1988, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994, 1997

FEB 23 2006

Feb. 22, 2006

Dear Councillor Nickel:

Recently, I came up with an idea to honour one of Edmonton's great sports heroes. I propose that the City of Edmonton, rename Stadium Road to honour Henry Gizmo Williams. It seems impractical to rename Commonwealth Stadium, but it seems quite appropriate to rename the road it is on. Perhaps the name could be changed to Henry Williams Way, Henry Gizmo Williams Way, or Gizmo Williams Way.

As far as our city's sporting history goes. It was Wayne Gretzky that put Edmonton on the map, but what has he done for the city since 1989 ? No disrespect to Mr. Gretzky, but if he gets a road named after him for winning 4 Stanley Cups. Then why not honour someone who has done so much more for our city than just win it championships ?

Gizmo Williams is a tireless supporter of many charities in the City of Edmonton. He spends countless hours doing things with, and for the children of our city. Again, just a couple of weeks ago, I saw his picture in the newspaper. He was once again donating his time for another charitable cause. He was doing a habitat for humanity (sorry, I don't recall the actual name of the charity) type building project. Every time he is in the news, it's because he is supporting another charitable cause. His name has such drawing power. Just to lend his name, and nothing else, must be a huge boon to a charity. He doesn't just lend his name though. He gives of his own time, and sweat. Mr. Williams chose to make Edmonton his home. Since then he has done nothing but improve our community. The guy has done so much for charity. If we all did one percent of the charitable work this man has done. Edmonton would be a Utopia. In this day, and age where the majority of pro athletes seem to care only about themselves, and how much money they can make. It's refreshing to see a man that truly " gets it ". Even now, 5 years removed from his playing days. Gizmo Williams still gives back to our community. He is not only a role model for our children, but a role model for us all. He was a great Eskimo, an Eskimo Great, and is an even greater man. This is why I would like to see the City of Edmonton honour this man by renaming Stadium Road, to Gizmo Williams Way.

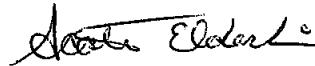

A little background on myself...I am a lifelong fan of the Edmonton Eskimos. This was just an idea that hit me out of the blue. I have absolutely no idea how the process of renaming a road works, or exactly whom I should be talking to about it. The first thing I did was post my idea on a couple of website message boards. I received alot of support from other CFL/Eskimo fans that thought this was an excellent idea, and was encouraged to continue with my efforts. I wrote letters to both the Edmonton Journal, and the Sun. The Journal published my letter on Sunday Feb. 19, 2006, and I have enclosed a copy of it for you to see. I get the impression the Journal likes my idea, because as you can see. They added a photo of Gizmo doing some charitable work to accompany my letter. The Sun has not yet published my letter. I included my email address with my letters, and have received alot of support from people that don't even really follow sports in our city. Getting that support from the mainstream people of our community really convinced me that this idea has merit. After writing to you, and the rest of city council, I am going to try to find out how to start a petition. I really believe that a very high percentage of the people of Edmonton will support this idea.

All I am trying to do is to honour someone that I believe deserves to be recognized for what he has done to improve the city we live in. I believe Henry Gizmo Williams is a man we can all look up to. I hope that you agree with me on this subject, and I hope you will come out publicly, and support the name change I have proposed. If you wish to contact me for any reason I can be reached by email at defendtheturf@hotmail.com, or my telephone number is 780 463-2535, or my cell is 780 920-1422. I am just a fan, and average citizen of our great city, but you are a public figure, and a leader of our city. I have no voice as such, in the media, but you do. With your public support, I believe we can recognize a man that deserves to be recognized for his efforts to make our city the best place place to live in all the world. And I truly believe that Edmonton is the best place to live in all the world. I thank you for your time, and hope I will receive your support.

Kindest Regards,

Scott Elderkin

Honouring a hometown hero: The Gizmo Williams Way

Ex-Esk merits recognition for selfless gifts to others

The other day I came up with an idea to honour one of our great sporting heroes.

I think the city should honour Henry (Gizmo) Williams by renaming Stadium Road after him. We can't really rename the stadium, but we sure can rename the road it's on. Perhaps Henry Gizmo Williams Way, or Gizmo Williams Way.

Wayne Gretzky put E-town on the map, but what has he done for the city since '89? No disrespect to Gretz, but if he gets a road for winning four Stanley Cups in Edmonton, then why not honour someone who has done so much more than just help win championships?

Gizmo Williams is a tireless supporter of many charities in the Edmonton.

He spends countless hours doing things with, and for, the children of our city.

He supports so many charitable causes. His name has such drawing power that for him to lend his name to a charity must be a huge boon to the cause.

He doesn't just lend his name though. He gives of his own time and sweat.

Williams chose to make Edmonton his home. Since then, he has done nothing but improve our community.

If we all did just one per cent of the charitable work this man has done, Edmonton would be a utopia.

If anyone out there thinks any other athlete has given back more to our community, I'd like to hear who it is. I'll tell you right now though, you are not going to find one.

Williams was a great Eskimo, an Eskimo Great, and is an even greater man.

Consider this the start of the official push by one fan to have the city honour this man by renaming Stadium Road after him.

People of Edmonton, if you're with me on this, then let your voice be heard.

Any advice on how and where to start a petition would be appreciated. I can be reached at defendtheturf@hotmail.com

Scott Elderkin, Edmonton

I have now set up an online petition to support the proposed name change of Stadium Road. The URL for the petition is. <http://www.petitiononline.com/gizmoway/petition.html>

The petition reads as follows.

To: The City of Edmonton: Names Advisory Committee

In recognition of his many on-field accomplishments, as well as his tireless work in support of many local charitable organizations. We petition The City of Edmonton to honour Mr. Henry " Gizmo " Williams, by renaming Stadium Road, to Gizmo Williams Way, (or some other similar variation).

Sincerely,

The Undersigned

Dear Scott:

Thank you for your letter regarding Henry (Gizmo) Williams. He is a great citizen of Edmonton.

I will forward your letter on to the Names Advisory Board to see what the process is to put Henry's name on the list.

Henry has been a great addition to our city and I would welcome anything that would recognize his commitment to the City of Edmonton.

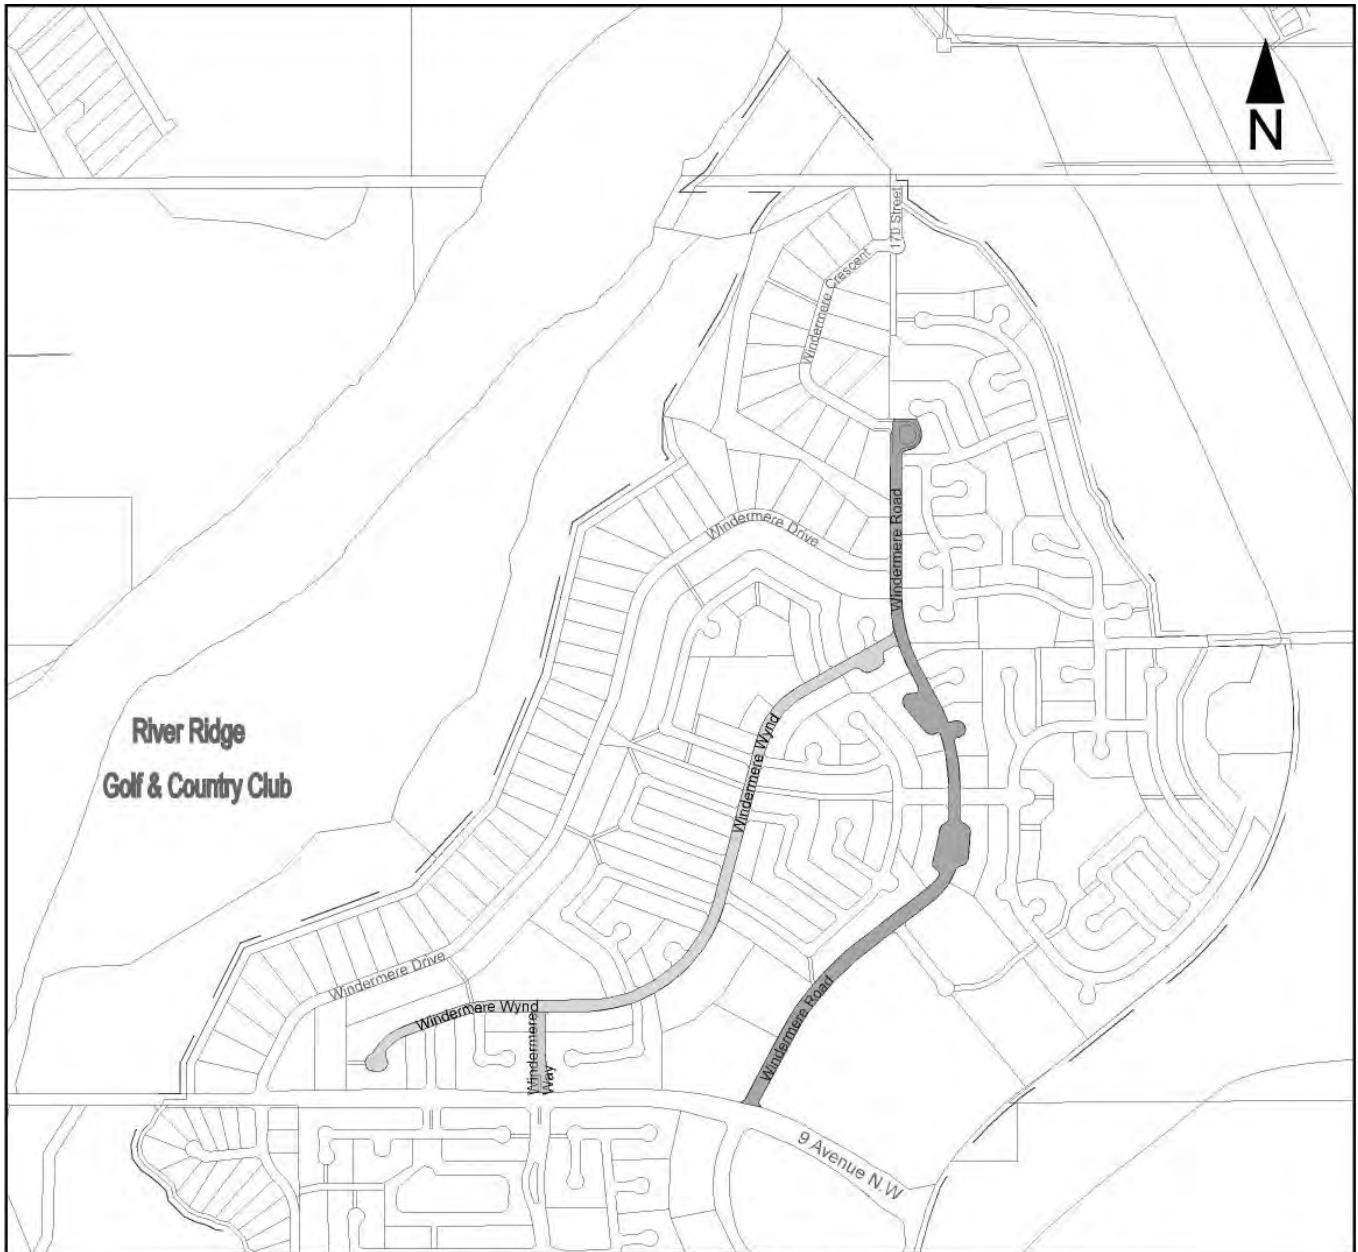

Yours truly,

Stephen Mandel

On April 4, 2006, the Administration received an application from Stantec Consulting Ltd. to name roads located within the Mactaggart Neighbourhood as “Mactaggart Drive,” “Mactaggart Link,” “Mactaggart Crest,” “McCrimmon Court,” “McLuhan Place,” “McLuhan Bluff,” “McLuhan End,” “McLuhan Bay,” “Mullen Road,” “Mullen Bend,” “Mullen Crest,” “Mullen Way” and “Mullen Place.” Mactaggart, McCrimmon, McLuhan and Mullen are from the Names Reserve List.

Biographies

Mactaggart, Sandy (1928-)

Sandy Mactaggart is an entrepreneur and philanthropist with provincial, national and international achievements in business, the arts, and education.

Sandy Auld Mactaggart was born in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1928. He was evacuated to Canada at the age of 11 during World War II. After schooling in Ontario at Lakefield College School and in New England at the Choate School, he graduated cum laude from Harvard College in 1950 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in architecture. In 1952, he received his master of business administration degree from the Harvard Business School. He was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree from the University of Alberta in 1990.

He came to Edmonton in 1952 and two years later incorporated Maclab Enterprises Ltd. with the late Jean de La Bruyère. These companies are engaged in property development and venture capital activities in Western Canada, the United States and other parts of the world.

Sandy Mactaggart's interest and support have been extended to many of the major cultural and artistic facilities in Alberta's capital city. He was one of four founders of the Citadel, Edmonton's first professional regional theatre. He continues to support the Citadel as a governor and through the sponsorship of one theatre production each year on the Maclab stage, named in recognition of his company's contributions to its construction.

Mr. Mactaggart is a trustee emeritus and former treasurer of the American University of Beirut. At Harvard, he serves on the University Resources Committee and is a former director and vice-president of the Alumni Association. In 1995-96, he served the association as director of the Harvard Clubs in Canada.

From 1983 to 1994, Sandy Mactaggart served on the University of Alberta, Board of Governors and chaired the university's Real Estate Advisory Committee. During this time, together with the province, he donated the 257-acre Mactaggart Nature Sanctuary to the university and the City of Edmonton. He chaired the University of Alberta Foundation for the first five years of its existence until 1994. On July 1, 1990, he became the university's 14th chancellor, a position he held for four years. In 1993, he was also appointed interim chair of the university's board of governors, and served in that capacity for six months.

In his twin roles of chancellor and chair of the board of governors, Mr. Mactaggart helped the university negotiate a transition in leadership and changes in government funding. He took steps to strengthen the bond between the university and the public to create a larger base of community support for post-secondary education. He introduced visiting committees, after a successful program at Harvard, in which community leaders are invited to tour university faculties and meet academic staff.

The visiting committees have become a permanent and effective tool to facilitate dialogue between the community and the university.

In 1995, Sandy Mactaggart received the James L. Fisher Award for Distinguished Service to Education from the Washington, D.C.-based Council for Advancement and Support of Education.

Mr. Mactaggart served in the Calgary Fleet Air Arm Reserve Squadron, and on the founding boards of the present Edmonton Art Gallery, the Boys' and Girls' Clubs of Alberta and Tempo School. He is, or has been, a director of several organizations including the C.D. Howe Institute, the Chief Executives Organization, the Lakefield College School and the Choate Fund in Ontario. In 1993, he was appointed to the Advisory Board of the Royal Society of Canada and the Donner Canadian Foundation, which he served until 1998. In 1997, he was appointed Alberta nominee to the national roster of arbitrators who adjudicate disputes under the Agreement on Internal Trade.

In 1997, Sandy Mactaggart was appointed an Officer of the Order of Canada.

McLuhan, Dr. Marshall (1911-1981)

Herbert Marshall McLuhan was born on July 21, 1911 in Edmonton, Alberta. "I think of western skies as one of the most beautiful things about the West, and the western horizons," he once said. "The westerner doesn't have a point of view. He has a vast panorama...a total field of vision." Mindful of this advantage, McLuhan professed not to be bothered, at least in retrospect, by his growing up in a backwater—his family moved to Winnipeg, Manitoba, a few years after his birth and McLuhan remained there until he attained an M.A. in English literature from the University of Manitoba in 1934. The periphery, the margins, provided another excellent field of vision, according to McLuhan—one reason he remained in Canada, for the most part, until his death in 1980.

His father, a genial but unambitious man, sold life insurance; his mother, a restless, domineering force, was an elocutionist who gave dramatic monologues in theatres and church basements. McLuhan acquired from her a remarkable facility both for memorization and impromptu speech. If he had a weakness, it was his inability to listen to speakers less forceful than he was. His forte, on the other hand, was talking tirelessly not only in brilliantly articulate sentences but whole paragraphs—a form of communication he much preferred to writing.

After leaving Manitoba, he spent two years acquiring a B.A. from Cambridge University. There he studied under I. A. Richards, a psychologist turned literary critic who examined the process of reading.

For Richards it was not the paraphrasable content of a poem that mattered but the way the poem communicated certain effects in the mind of a reader. In later years, McLuhan adapted this technique to the study of media, inspired as well by another Cambridge professor, F. R. Leavis, who urged his students to analyze their cultural environment—advertisements in particular—in the same way they analyzed literature. McLuhan's first book, The Mechanical Bride, published in 1951, was very much an exercise in cultural criticism in the Leavis mode, a series of essays on advertisements, laying bare their cultural roots and assumptions.

After he left Cambridge in 1936, McLuhan taught for a year at the University of Wisconsin, and then, following his conversion to Catholicism, he joined the faculty of a Jesuit institution, the University of St. Louis. There he married a Texas drama student named Corinne Keller Lewis, with whom he had six children. In 1944 he returned to Canada where he taught for two years at what was then known as Assumption College in Windsor, Ontario, before finally settling at the University of Toronto, his home for the rest of his career. Here he met a political economist named Harold Innis who had discovered that certain media of communication are time based and certain media—more portable and ephemeral—are space based. Working with this hint, and discovering simultaneously in the works of James Joyce, notably Finnegans Wake, a critique of radio and television, McLuhan articulated his perceptions of media as extensions of the human body, and of electronic media, in particular, as extensions of the nervous system, imposing, like poetry, their own assumptions on the psyche of the user.

Aided by a Ford Foundation grant, McLuhan and a few collaborators, notably the anthropologist Edmund Carpenter, produced a periodical entitled Explorations—consisting of eight issues, from 1953 to 1957—laying out these perceptions. The articles by McLuhan in this periodical remain the best introduction to his work.

Mullen, Betty (unknown)

Betty Mullen was the President on the Edmonton and Alberta Home Economics Associations, volunteer on the United Way Board of Directors and on the United Way's planning and allocation committee. She has assisted in canvassing or organizing volunteers for the Salvation Army, the Cancer fund, the Heart Fund, the United Way, Concordia College and the Aspen Gardens Community League. She has served as a driver for Meals on Wheels, helped with projects at the Bissell Centre, worked as kitchen help at the Marion centre, and makes and serves meals to inner city seniors. She has also been active on behalf of the Edmonton YWCA.

MacCrimmon, Malcolm (1851-1928)

Malcolm MacCrimmon was a pioneer railroad builder. It was in 1880, that Mr. MacCrimmon began railroading in Winnipeg, He was a sub-contractor on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway and had charge of the work on the completion of the line in British Columbia. He came to Edmonton in 1901, when he received contracts on the Calgary and Edmonton line and the Edmonton Yukon & Pacific. The line connecting Edmonton and Strathcona, were among his later undertakings. Among the personal interests of Mr. MacCrimmon were the Edmonton Old Timers' association and the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, to which he had belonged for thirty years. He was also a lifelong member of the Presbyterian Church.

6. Request to rename Keillor Road, Keillor Trail.

On April 3, 2006, the Administration received an application forwarded from Councillor Anderson's Office, from James Wheatley to rename Keillor Road, Keillor Trail.

History

Keillor Road was named approved February 24, 1974, and closed in 1995.

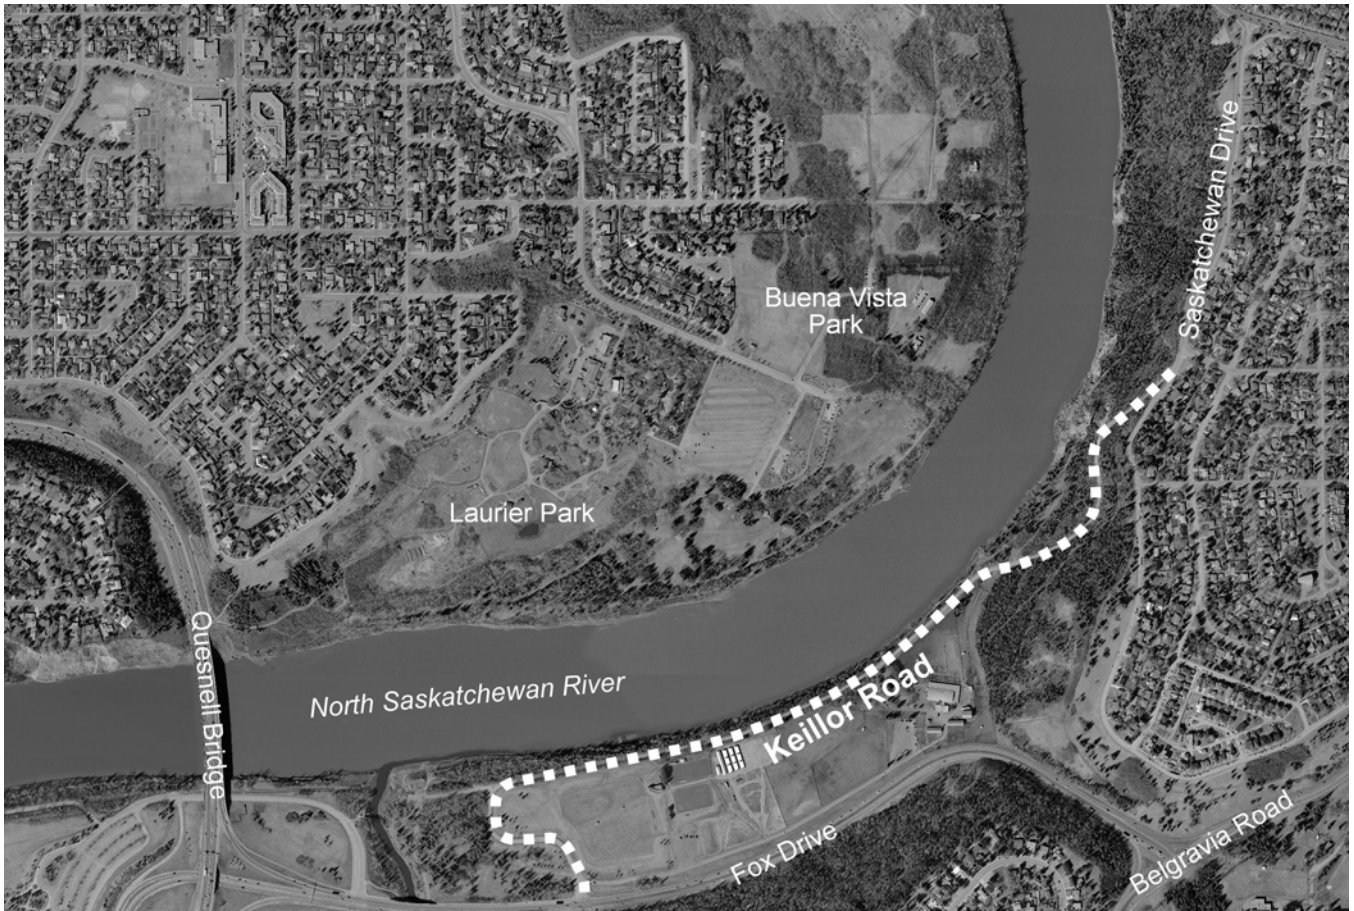

Biography

Keillor, Frederick Anson

Alderman, 1926, 1929-1932

Frederick Anson Keillor was born in 1883, in Wallacetown, Ontario. Son of Albro and Ada (nee Greene) Keillor. He was educated at Dutton High School, Guelph Agricultural College and Western University in London, Ontario, where he graduated in medicine in 1908. Keillor practised medicine in Raymond, Alberta, until 1913, then moved to Edmonton. He went overseas in 1915, as member of the Royal Army Medical Corps. Keillor served at Dardanelles (Gallipoli) and in France. Returned home in 1917 and served with the Canadian Army Medical Corps until the end of WWI and reached the rank of Captain. Frederick Keillor purchased 61 acres of farmland in 1919, stretching from top of Saskatchewan Drive to Whitemud Creek. Raised hogs, pure-bred Jersey cattle and foxes. Keillor donated a strip of land along the riverbank to the city in 1925 to be used as a park. Rest of the land was later expropriated by the City to build Fox Drive and Whitemud Equestrian Centre. Member of Alberta Medical Association, Canadian Medical Association, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Methodist Church. Conservative in politics. Married Lillian Lyons in 1909. Three children. Died in January 1971.

Keillor

Here is a history of Dr. Keillor. As I have suggested given that Keillor Road is no more it is appropriate that the new pathway be properly named Keillor Trail

Frederick Anson Keillor

Dr. Keillor was born September 1, 1883 in Glencoe Ontario. He was raised in Wallacetown Ontario. He graduated from a dairy school in 1902. In 1908 he graduated in medicine from the University of Western Ontario.

After graduation he moved to Raymond Alberta. He married Lillian Lyons September 1, 1909 and they lived in Raymond until 1912, after which they moved to Edmonton. He practiced in South Edmonton with an office over the Princess Theater on Whyte Avenue.

He enlisted as a medical officer in 1914 and was in the 1915-16 Battle of Gallipoli in the Dardanelles where he became ill from Typhoid Fever. He recovered in Alexandria Egypt and later in London, England. He was demobilized in 1918 with the rank of captain.

When he returned to Edmonton in 1918, he initially was the medical director of the South Edmonton Veterans Home that was located on the University of Alberta lands and was a precursor of the University Hospital. In 1920 he went into private practice as a general physician and surgeon with his office in the Royal Bank Building at the corner of 82 Avenue and 104 Street. He had admitting privileges at the Edmonton General Hospital and Misericordia Hospital.

In 1923 he purchased 61 acres of land from the Imperial Bank. John Walter had previously owned the land. In 1927 Dr. Keillor donated land for a road right of way that was parallel to the Saskatchewan River and extended from 76th Avenue down the hill to the Whitemud Creek. That title to the land was transferred to the city on November 1, 1930 and construction of the road was started the next year.

The intent of the road was to provide recreational access to the river, river valley trails and the White Mud Creek. Dr. Keillor also provided a site on the farm for the Edmonton Canoe Club to store their canoes. The flat land was cleared. Barns and two houses were built in part from local river rock and logs that were floated down the river from Tomahawk. During that time the land was used as an active working farm with a dairy herd, sheep and pigs.

Dr. Keillor was the city alderman from 1926 to 1927 and from 1929 to 1932. He was also on the Edmonton Exhibition Board and a president of the Edmonton Academy of Medicine. He retired in 1949. His wife died in 1955 and he died in 1971. He was survived by 3 daughters, 12 grandchildren and 7 great grandchildren survived him.

In the mid 1950s the Keillor family leased the land to Leecoll Stables and in 1974 the city acquired the land by expropriation. After 1974 the city changed the name to the Whitemud Riding Academy and later to the Whitemud Grant MacEwan Equine Centre. In 1981 the Keillor Farm as it had been known in the past was finally called the Whitemud Equine Centre. The Whitemud Road name was changed to Keillor Road in 1974 and after much contraversion the road was finally closed in 1995.
