Ride into the New Year at the Muttart Conservatory

The Muttart Conservatory is celebrating the Year of the Horse with a life-sized terracotta horse and warrior in the Lunar New Year feature pyramid. These replicas of clay warriors and horses found in the tomb of China's first emperor are the centerpiece of a bold and vibrant display that opens January 11, 2014.

Date: Saturday, January 11, 2014

Time: Noon to 6 p.m.

Location: Muttart Conservatory, 9626 - 96A Street
Regular admission prices apply.

The opening celebration will include music from the Alberta Chinese Orchestra, dancing, crafts, and a brilliant fireworks display behind the Muttart Conservatory that will begin after dark. It will be a first chance to see the Lunar New Year pyramid which will also include a moon bridge, festive lanterns as well as lucky colours and plants that signify a successful new year.

The Lunar New Year: Year of the Horse feature pyramid display will run until March 2, 2014.
