What is Pecha Kucha?

Drawing its name from the Japanese term for "the sound of chit chat," Pecha Kucha Night was devised by Tokyo's Klein Dytham Architecture in February 2003 as a venue for young designers to meet, network, exchange ideas and discuss their work in public. It rests on a presentation format that is based on a simple idea: 20 images, each shown for 20 seconds, for a total presentation length of six minutes and 40 seconds. Why this format, you ask? It keeps presentations concise, fast-paced and entertaining.

About Edmonton's NextGen

Formed in 2006, Edmonton's NextGen is an initiative of the City of Edmonton focused on creating a city that attracts and gives a voice to the next generation in the life and growth of Edmonton's communities. NextGen is a hub for connecting people, places, community and ideas. Through events, leadership opportunities and professional development, NextGen fosters young leaders and supports initiatives of interest to the next generation.
