7000 flowers create life-sized polar bear at the Muttart Conservatory

Meet Fleur de Neige, the Muttart Conservatory's life-sized polar bear. She's the star of the Conservatory's holiday feature pyramid, "A Polar Christmas", and she's been brought to life by thousands of snowy flowers. With illuminated icebergs and a sea of poinsettias, this show is a tribute to the frosty beauty of Canada's Arctic.

A Polar Christmas opens Saturday, November 29, and closes January 5, 2015. Visitors to the exhibit can enter to win a Polar Bear Safari: a trip for four to see wild polar bears on the shores of Hudson's Bay. It's a once-in-a-lifetime chance to experience the beauty and wildlife of this unique place.

Families are also invited to the North Pole Christmas celebration at the Muttart Conservatory.
