Artist finds inspiration in Edmonton's urban forest

Edmonton's river valley and urban forest will be featured in an exhibit by landscape artist Jeff Collins. Collins created the works as Artist in Residence with the City of Edmonton's Forestry department.

Collins says he was impressed at the commitment and passion the City's forestry experts bring to their jobs every day. He hopes his paintings reflect this dedication.

The exhibition is free of charge, and everyone is invited. Select paintings created by city employees are also included in the display.

Dates: December 20, 2014 – January 21, 2015

Time: Daily, 7 a.m. – 11 p.m.

Location: Extension Gallery, Enterprise Square 10230 Jasper Ave.

Closing Reception: Thursday, January 15, 6 – 9 p.m.

Collins worked next to Forestry employees during his tenure as Artist in Residence.

The Edmonton Arts Council developed the Artist in Residence program. One of the goals of the program is to inspire employees to see their work from a new perspective.
