Crews sanding, plowing Edmonton roads

Due to the snowfall that has continued throughout the weekend, Roadway Maintenance crews have been working on arterial roads and collector/bus routes. Sanding began immediately on Friday as temperatures dropped, with plowing starting once there was more than 3 cm accumulation of snow. Crews have been doubled up through the days and hired graders will be brought in overnight Sunday to prepare major routes for the Monday morning commute.

At this point in time, we are not initiating the seasonal parking ban on collector bus routes.

Members of the media wishing to speak with Bob Dunford, Director of Roadway Maintenance, Transportation Operations (Transportation Services) regarding recent winter road maintenance activities are invited to attend a brief availability.
