Thinking about running for office?

Monday, April 3, 2017

Edmonton's election for City and School Board officials will take place this fall – Monday, October 16, 2017 – and the Edmonton.ca website now has everything you need to know if you're considering running for Mayor, City Councillor or School Board Trustee.

Visit Edmonton Elections: For Candidates for key information on filing a notice of intent to run for office, nomination instructions and forms, campaign finances, registering to place campaign signs, what to expect as an official, important election legislation and more.

The 2017 Edmonton Election includes races for Mayor, City Councillors, Edmonton Catholic School District Trustees and Edmonton Public School District Trustees. Those elected will serve a four-year term.

Key Points for Candidates

- Nominations papers must be filed on Nomination Day, Monday September 18, 2017, at City Hall. The official candidate list will be posted on the Edmonton Elections website following Nomination Day.
- Candidates must obtain a minimum number of signatures in support of their nomination and pay a deposit fee. Visit the Elections website for specific information.
- All candidates are responsible for understanding the legislation and bylaws concerning elections, and campaigning restrictions.
